SHACKLETON TO COVER 30,000 MILES ON SEA

London, Sept. 19.—The voyage of The Quest, the quaint little 200-ton ship which is carrying Sir Ernest Shackleton and his party to frozen mysteries in the South Polar Seas, has for its objectives not only nautical research but the exploration of a petrified forest and the location of a "lost" island—Tuanaki, the adjacent waters of which have not been sailed for more than 20 years. In addition, soundings will be taken of the ocean plateau surrounding Gough's Island in an effort to determine the truth regarding a supposed under-water continental connection between Africa and America.

Nineteen persons, representing each of the British self-governing dominions, are expected to be aboard, upon the tiny but staunch craft, built for tight corners, leaves Capetown, South Africa, for two years of hurtling its way through the Antarctic ice.

The Quest, which uses both sail and steam, and which may cover more than 30,000 miles before its return home, was constructed according to the personal ideas of Shackleton, who has made several voyages to the Antarctic. He commanded the British expedition of 1917-18, which reached within 97 miles of the South Pole and also the expedition of 1914-15 to Weddell Sea. His present ship is 111 feet long, 25 foot beam and 12 feet in depth. She was built in Norway in 1917 of oak, pine and spruce and has been tested in heavy ice. Her sides are two feet thick and her hoks are of solid oak sheathed with steel. Her steaming radius is 3,000 miles and, under sail, in a stiff breeze The Quest can make eight knots. She carries wireless equipment and an airplane with a 25-foot wing spread. She has a glass-enclosed bridge and a lookout that resembles a flour barrel.

Major C. R. Carr, an English soldier of fortune, the aviator of the expedition, plans to fly above the Antarctic fogs to scout out passages between the floes through which The Quest may pass. He is also the photographer and naturalist of the expedition. The biplane he will use is one of only three that were ever built. The other two were flown, respectively, by Colonel Borton V. S., the pioneer flyer from England to Mesopotamia and by Sir Ross Smith, the first man to fly from England to Australia.

Other members of the Shackleton party, besides those already mentioned, include Frank Eild, second in command; Frank Worsley, commander; Major A. H. Macklin, biologist; R. Stenhouse, Lieutenant commander; Captain L. Hussey, meteorologist; J. S. W. Marr and N. E. Monev, cabin boys.

The petrified forest that will be explored was found by Shackleton on the island of Trinidad at a certain point where he landed from Captain Robert F. Scott's ship, the Discovery, more than 12 years ago. Gough's Island is eight miles long and 4,000 feet high and in 1904, when visited for the first time on record by members of the Bruce expedition, was found to have at least four hitherto

She is starring in unclassified species of birds, Tuanaki, the "lost" island, has been mentioned in old nautical records but apparently has disappeared. A spot in the Pacific where it is supposed to be will be dredged for evidence to show that it is recently submerged land.

There is already in the South Polar regions, another British expedition. It is led by Commander John L. Cope who left Norfolk, Va., on Oct. 27, 1920, for a six years' sojourn in the ice fields. The party is aboard a

500,000 MEN TO BE IDLE IN NEW YORK CITY

New York, Sept. 19.—Half a million men will be idle in New York this winter, in the opinion of reliable investigators, and the city has set machinery in motion to meet this situation.

In addition to relief measures planned by a special city committee named by Mayor Hylan, 53 charity organizations have decided to pool their resources and establish a general clearing house in order to avoid duplication of effort and handle the problem efficiently.

The Merchants association of New York and the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce have joined hands with the Central Trades and Labor Council and the Building Trades Council to formulate a practical program. These organizations believe the situation can be met partly by pushing building projects, thus giving employment to thousands.

The program of the ex-service man is at the heart of the entire situation, said Major William P. Deegan of the American Legion, one of the members of the Mayor's committee. He said 75,000 former soldiers were out of work during the summer and he fears the number will be increased to between 100,000 and 125,000 by mid-winter.

"We have no funds to help them," he said, "but we never let a man go away without help, even if we have to dig in our own pockets to help them."

Down on the crowded East Side, the Bowery lodging houses are already filled to capacity each night. "Men out of work are sleeping everywhere in the open, in every park, on every pier, in alleys, in storeyards and any place they can huddle out of the way and rest," said Major Underwood of the Salvation Army. "They cannot do so when it becomes cold."

Every Day Is Like Fourth In Heligoland

Heligoland, Sept. 19.—Every day is a Fourth of July celebration on the little rock island of Heligoland. And not a safe, and sane celebration at that.

At sunrise the 1,000 German workmen who are dynamiting the pet fortress and naval harbor of Kaiser William II set off their blasts. The bombardment keeps up throughout the day. Charges of TNT make the water in the naval harbor spout up like keyholes in the Yellowstone Park and the big gun pits on the summit of the rocky cliff give an occasional roar like Vesuvius and blech out great clouds of black smoke and pulverized concrete.

For two years more the work of devastation will continue night and day. It took Kaiser William II eight years to build the great fortress and naval harbor which defended the Kiel Canal and afforded Germany's navy a base to England. It cost Germany 50,000,000 of gold marks. The cost of dismantling it, which Germany also bear in accordance with the terms of the Versailles Treaty will probably be about 100,000,000 gold marks.

Heligoland proper is a stony triangle less than a mile long and scarcely a quarter of a mile wide in the broadest section. It stands nearly 200 feet above the water of the North Sea at a point 31 miles north-west of Cuxhaven, the entrance to the Kiel Canal. The walls of the island are practically perpendicular but at its south-eastern end is a small beach upon which the German navy erected a coaling and oil station, fresh-water reservoirs, seaplane sheds and docks. Here also was constructed a naval harbor thoroughly protected by seawalls, which was capable of accommodating eight or ten destroyers of cruisers and an unlimited number of submarines.

From this harbor many destroyers sailed out to participate in the Battle of Jutland and the Battle of Heligoland Bight.

The German Admiralty converted Heligoland into a sort of shore battle ship. Three great batteries were planted in the rock in a manner which gives the cliff the appearance of the interior of a four-deck battleship.

Already the 11-inch guns and their carriages have been sawed into small bits and thrown into scrap steel piles. Workmen are now plying electrical drills in the concrete walls and bases, preparatory to shooting down all the masonry.

The seaplane sheds, coalbins, oil tanks and water reservoirs, along the waterfront have also been burned and dynamited and hundreds of workmen are grinding away at the gun bases of the great seawall enclosing the naval harbor, preparatory to removing every improvement which might be of use to Germany's future navy.

Heligoland once was a popular summer resort but the German visitors do not stay long at the island this year, because of the constant blasting and the evidences of devastation which affords a sad monument to Germany's once proud navy. The native residents of the island are indifferent to the devastation, as most of them were born under the British flag, before Heligoland was transferred by the British to the Germans.

OIL CONTAMINATES NEW YORK HARBOR

New York, Sept. 19.—Shipping interests have heeded persistent warnings that unless something is done to stop the pollution of New York harbor by oil waste from steamers the greatest port in the world will be menaced by danger of a great conflagration. They have formed a committee to see that the harbor is cleansed of this peril.

Great pools have collected in many of the harbor basins, and wooden piers have become soaked with the oil. Underwriters and firemen here remark that water would be of little good in fighting such a fire, as it would make the burning oil spread farther.

Many plans for disposal have been offered. One would ask Congress to make appropriations for enforcement of the statute prohibiting the casting of troublesome oil upon the waters. Another would request the city to enforce the ordinance providing barges to carry off the oil.

should it all be poured into barges is another problem. Commercially it has little value, it is said, and it would be useless to dump it at sea, even so far out as fifty miles. For the oil would come back, just like the cats people try to get rid of by taking them to the country. Shipping men, however, express the belief that a profitable means of utilizing the waste will be found.

Representatives of the national board of fire under writers have informed the committee that the problem of eliminating similar danger in European harbors had interested the governments of Great Britain, France and Italy, and that they were working on possible solutions.

The washed democracy of New York also has sent up a wail of protest against dirty habits the steamships have gotten into since oil largely supplanted coal as fuel. At some of the bathing beaches the sticky waste has become so thick that bath-houses furnish bathers with kerosene to wipe it off their bodies after these sion in the surf. Bathers at these points complain that they leave the water much dirtier than when they entered.

Benefit of a Good Laugh.

However, the laugh began. It is a recognized fact that a few healthy "ha-has" form one of the best tonics imaginable. It gets plenty of fresh air into the lungs, and generally tones one up. Also, it eases the nerves.

Everything Coming Fine and Dandy

For Bismarck's First DOLLAR DAYS

On Wednesday and Thursday
September 28th and 29th

Every Merchant in Bismarck is preparing his stock and arranging the bold-est bargains for DOLLAR DAYS that were ever known in retail merchandising. There are bargains galore and merchants are forgetting profits and have placed the strong aim of value giving on every article. Each store manager and their employees are spinning around like tops gathering goods from their shelves that will make the shoppers know that they have saved considerable money on goods bought. That is why the merchants say: "EVERYTHING IS COMING FINE AND DANDY," and they want to impress the mind of shoppers that high price talk is no more existing. Take advantage of this wonderful DOLLAR DAYS SALE for there will be large assortments of every class of Goods placed on sale for ONE DOLLAR. Be at the store promptly at nine o'clock in the morning and be the first to enter and get the pick. Arrange your home duties ahead of time to be here. There will be lots of Hotel and Restaurant accommodations, and your every want will be taken care of.

Big Plans are now being made by: Dry Goods Merchants, Department Stores, Banks, Grocers, Milliners, Druggists, Jewelers, Music Stores, Clothiers, Stationers, Flower Stores, Real Estate, Electrical Supplies, Confectioners, Ladies' Ready-to-Wear, Meat Markets, Hardware, Furniture, Shoe Stores and Shoe Repair Shops, Insurance, Hotels, Garages, Wholesale Houses, Photographers, Printers, Moving Picture Houses, Seed Stores, Wellworth 5 & 10 Cent Store, etc., etc.

These two—Big Dollar Days—are under the approval of the Bismarck Town Criers Advertising Club, which stands for truth in advertising.

Carrying On With the American Legion

Not to be outdone by the Women's Auxiliary of the American Legion and the various associations of war mothers, "Dad" is now forming an association of his own. The new fathers' organization is known as the "Order of Loyal Dads." It will cooperate with all patriotic orders, and will be especially affiliated with the American Legion. "Dad" Sheldon Foote of Ft. Myers, Fla., is the founder of the paternal order. Its principles will encourage "clean, patriotic living free of party, politics, race or creed." Men whose sons served in the Spanish American or World wars, or who served in the army or navy at any other time will be eligible.

A sales system for the hundreds of practical articles and ornaments that are being made by disabled veterans is being developed by the East Side post at St. Paul, Minn. The sale opened on Bastille day, July 14, with a carnival, the proceeds of which will aid their unfortunate comrades in civil reestablishment. The American Legion Welfare Bureau of St. Paul, is fighting for the unemployed ex-servicemen with financial handicaps in what it terms a determined effort to "keep the bread line and soup kitchen out of St. Paul."

Thomas J. Bannigan, the new vice commander of the American Legion is well known in New England for his record as chairman of the legislative committee of the Connecticut department of the Legion. He waged a high against politicians who, he declared, were trying to "commercialize, federalize and politicize soldier legislation." As a result of this campaign the state of Connecticut turned over to the American Legion as disbursing agent, a fund of $2,500,000 for the relief of needy ex-service men and their dependent families.

Capt Harry C. Brumbaugh former executive officer of General Pershing's information force which kept track of every man in France and the movements of all troops and individual units, has been chosen executive secretary of the World War veterans state aid of Oregon. Brumbaugh was formerly treasurer of the Legion Publishing corporation and assistant national treasurer of the American Legion.

After surviving several engagements of the World war in which he won a Croix de Guerre and was twice cited for bravery, Clifford A. Laffin, member of the American Legion, died at St. John's hospital, St. Paul, Minn., as the result of a pin scratch. Laffin was a first lieutenant in the Seventeenth field artillery. Infection from the scratch caused his death within a few days.

National Commander Emery of the American Legion placed a wreath of the casket of Private Gresham at memorial services which marked the return of the hero's body from France. Commander Emery and Private Gresham were members of the same brigade. The former was severely wounded and the latter killed in action. Private Gresham was one of the first three Americans killed in France.

A summer camp, conducted by the American Legion and the Disabled American Veterans of the World war known as Camp Galbraith, in honor of Col. F. W. Galbraith, Jr., late commander of the Legion, has been opened in a $100,000 hotel near Port Townsend, Wash. The camp will continue until September 15, and will be open to all veterans and their families for whatever period they desire.

At the suggestion of Victor J. Miller, president of the St. Louis (Mo.) police board, the Frederick W. Stockham post, American Legion, voted to form a committee to co-operate with the police in ridding the city of crime. President Miller characterized their work as a thankless effort to see that Americanism starts at home.

Personal letters congratulating all aliens who receive their final citizenship papers are sent out by F. M. Wood, commander of the American Legion post at Okmulgee, Okla. In the letters, Wood offers assistance of the Legion in steering a clear course in Americanism and pledges fellow ship.

The site for Kansas City's $200,000, 000 Liberty Memorial building will be dedicated October 1, the opening day of the national convention of the American Legion. The dedication will follow a parade of some 30,000 members of the American Legion from all parts of the world.

More than 6,000 former service men have been assisted financially and otherwise by the Connecticut department of the American Legion, according to a recent report. Approximately $270,000 from a fund appropriated by the state of Connecticut, has been spent in the soldier welfare work.

Among the cities that have tossed their hats in the ring as candidates for the 1922 national convention of the American Legion are New Orleans, Baltimore, Houston and San Francisco.

GERMAN MARK CAUSES NEW FEAR IN FRANCE

THIS, FOLKS, IS THE TROUBLESOME GERMAN MARK. IT USED TO BE WORTH ABOUT 24 CENTS AMERICAN; NOW IT CAN BE HAD FOR A SINGLE COPPER—AND MAY BE DEAR AT THE PRICE.

BY J. W. T. MASON
Authority on International Affairs,
Who Recently Returned From Europe

New York Sept. 20.—The German mark is falling because Germany is continuing to issue paper money without increasing her gold reserve. At present the German government has one gold mark in reserve for every 90 paper marks being circulated. The proportion should be one in two or one in three for the German currency to be on a safe basis. The fall in marks has nothing to do with any effort by Germany to evade the war indemnity. The indemnity can be paid for the most part only in German goods. The fall in marks will make it more difficult for Germany to purchase raw materials abroad which must be used in producing manufactured articles to be sold in foreign markets for meeting the indemnity demands. But by no possibility could the German government deliberately cause a fall in marks so as to compel German manufacturers to pay more for their raw materials.

French Wrong
French criticisms that Germany is deliberately arranging to go into bankruptcy as a way of wiping out the indemnity have no basis in fact. German bankruptcy would not disturb the amount of actual goods in Germany, and these goods are the counters in the indemnity matter. It is more likely that the French criticism of Germany's financial weakness is preparatory to an admission by French financiers and economists that the time has come when France money of Europe never will return to par.

How to stabilize the mark is a problem that has no solution in sight. The difficulty is to balance the external and internal value of the mark.

Difference in Value

Before the war, a mark was worth twenty-five cents. At present a mark can be bought in America for about one cent. But when that mark is taken into Germany it has a purchasing power of approximately five cents. When whatever is paid for a mark abroad represents the purchasing value of the mark in Germany, Europe's financial problem will have been solved.

French-German Agreement To Aid European Trade

By N. E. A. Service
Paris Sept. 20.—France and Germany are expected to ratify the Loucheur-Rathenau separate reparations agreement, thus opening the way for a European boom.

The French government has been authoritatively advised that the British government will not object.

This agreement as worked out by the German economists and the French economists virtually supplants the reparations clauses of the Versailles treaty as affecting these countries.

A credit of seven billion gold marks is to be opened in Germany. Against this France will be privileged to order German goods for reconstruction of the devastated regions.

The credit would be deducted from France's share of the annuity as agreed upon at the last financial conference in London at the rate of a billion German marks a year for five years.

The remaining two billion marks Germany must raise.

HEAR APPLAUSE CAUSES WORRY

New York, Sept. 20.—The impulse of theatergoers to applaud actors as they step out from the wings each night is worrying Broadway. One manager has included in the program a request that the audience break itself of the habit of cheering. The custom began with the greetings which star worshippers always extend on the first appearance of leading actors. Spurred on by complimentary notices, the custom spread to lesser mortals. The last straw came the other night when tu-

Effect on France
This will not mean France's own bankruptcy. There is still a large margin in France for increasing taxation and enormous sums of money can be saved. If France will reduce her present standing army of 800,000 men to a reasonable basis.

By these methods of increasing domestic revenue and decreasing governmental expense, France eventually will be able to safeguard herself against financial disaster without the German indemnity.

The decline in value of the German mark is one more argument showing that the heavily depreciated paper multitudes applause interrupted a performance on the appearance of a minor character whose only assignment was to announce that the coach and pair are ready to start.

SEVEN MILLION BUSHEL WHEAT BEING PLEDGED

Seven million bushels of wheat have been put under pledge in Kansas by the National Wheat Growers association, which stands on the basic principle that it shall market 100 per cent of its members' wheat.

This is the organization which insisted on at least a degree of compulsory pooling and so refused to join the movement fostered by the American Farm Bureau Federation which resulted in formation of the U. S. Grain Growers Inc. with provision for optional pooling.

Kansas is where the national wheat growers headquarters are located and it gave 2,000,000 bushels more than the 7,000,000 Sept. 1 goal the association set.

Incorporation has been effected in this state following similar steps in Oklahoma. W. H. McGreevy of this city, national secretary-treasurer, says incorporation will follow also in Texas, Colorado, Nebraska and North Dakota. The U. S. Grain Growers, Inc., also has taken out a state charter and is making headway.

A Two-Fisted Job

For many years the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has been perfecting an organization with the sole purpose of giving the consuming public a maximum of service at a minimum of cost.

To do this, four large refineries have been built and equipped; 3,700 bulk stations have been placed at strategic points throughout the 11 states served; more than 1,300 service stations have been located at convenient points so that Standard Oil Company (Indiana) products may be obtained every few miles in the country and every few blocks in the city.

Fleets of tank wagons and motor trucks are always in service ready to deliver Red Crown Gasoline, Perfection Kerosene and other Standard Oil products to consumers, wherever they may live.

In organizing this vast net-work of service, those responsible for the management of the Company have had two major objects in view; first, to reduce the cost of manufacturing, marketing, and distributing to the lowest point possible; second, to make prices which would be fair to the consuming public.

While mindful of the rights and privileges of its competitors, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) believes that its first duty is to the consuming public.

During the present unsettled conditions in the petroleum industry, this Company has reduced the selling price of its goods as rapidly as sound management would permit, and it proposes to continue this practice.

This policy conforms to the established practice of the Company of letting service take care of volume, and volume take care of profits and return to the 20,621 stockholders, not one of whom owns as much as 10 percent of the capital stock.

BISMARCK COUPLE STEAL SURPRISE ON THEIR FRIENDS

Word was received in the city today of the wedding of Miss Helen S. Brosnahan and Eugene Wachter, both of this city, at St. Paul on Friday. The wedding comes as a surprise to Bismarck people, as Miss Brosnahan left Bismarck last week to visit her sister who was ill. Mr. Wachter left about the same time, telling friends that he was going to visit in Montana.

Both young people are well known in Bismarck. Mrs. Wachter is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Brosnahan of Carrington. She is a graduate of the Grignon high school and of the Bismarck Business College. For the last several years she has been employed in the office of the commissioner of agriculture and labor at the state capital. Mr. Wachter is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Wachter of the city and has interests in the Wachter Transfer company. He is a graduate of the Bismarck high school and of St. Thomas College at St. Paul, Minn.

Mr. and Mrs. Wachter left St. Paul on a wedding trip in the east. They will make their home in Bismarck, but just when they will return is not known.

Community Chorus Has Enthusiastic Meeting

A very enthusiastic meeting of the Community Chorus was held at the Business and Professional Women's club rooms last evening. About one hundred Bismarck people attended the first meeting of the chorus and many people have spoken to members of the club today about joining the chorus. This is the first attempt of the kind in Bismarck and judging from the crowd that attended it will be a decided success here.

Last night the chorus worked on three songs, "Where My Caravan Has Rested," "The Heavens Are Calling" and a "Spring Song." Mr. Frank Gale, director of the chorus work, was well pleased with the voices and the work done at the first meeting of the chorus. He said that if the members did work at the meetings that the chorus will work on a Messiah. The enthusiasm with which this suggestion was received showed the members are willing to do commendable work.

There were a large number of voices on both the soprano and alto sides, but the bass and tenors were a little weak. A special invitation is extended to Bismarck people who sing bass or tenor to attend these meetings and help the chorus.

The next meeting will be at the Business and Professional Women's club rooms, next Monday night at 7:30.

USE BRAN ON YOUR HANDS; IT WILL SOFTEN AND WHITEN THEM

IT WON'T HURT WHEN YOU PUSH THE CUTICLE BACK

(By Mme. Moreau)
 Paris, Sept. 20.—A bran bath is as fine a thing as you can give your hands, if you want to be really kind to them. It softens them and whitens them and is wonderfully effective, used just before you manicure your nails.

You'll find the cuticle sticking better after a bran bath. It will be soft and won't hurt the least, but if when you shove it back to make the pretty half moons you're so proud of, and while we're talking about nails, don't let the white spots worry you and don't spend hours trying to get away from them because usually they are made by little workers of air forming under the nails and aren't a blemish that you can help.

For the bath, boil a small quantity of bran in a linen bag. Put both She left this morning for the University at Grand Forks where she will enroll as a senior.

GYPSY'S GOING BACK TO HER ENGLISH HOME

MISS MAMIE POWERS, HER MOTHER AND GYP

Gyp is going back to England. Though an ocean voyage means nothing to Gyp, she is quite close, worldly wise, as it were, so far as travels are concerned.

trip back to England with not a little unconcern.

Indeed, she forced the thing! She's had a way of doing that ever since she was born in a military camp at St. Paul, Minn., and came into the possession of a little English girl, Mamie Powers, and her mother.

She began by taking a ride in a dignified English wicker basket which a dignified English maid was carrying. Gyp spied the nice soft white looking mass moving in the yard below the second story window from which she viewed the landscape. When it came into focus Gyp reaped and landed safely in the midst of the freshly laundered clothes, which the maid, whom Gyp knew, was carrying.

That's Gyp's way. But she's just as generous with her friendship as she expects other folk to be with hers.

The difficulty of arranging passage for Gyp had been so great that Miss Powers decided to find a home for her on this side.

But Gyp had plans of her own. She sought the first chance to escape and after traveling at least three miles over busy Chicago streets, she was found waiting one morning, footsore but happy, at the door of the house where Miss Powers and her mother were staying.

So passage is being arranged for Gyp.

AT BISMARCK
 Another of Victor Danas' delightful photodramas will be presented at the Bismarck theater commencing tomorrow when "The Match Breaker," adapted from the story of Alice White, is shown.

This Dallas M. Fitzgerald production for Metro presents the vivacious star as a sort of a female Sherlock Holmes who finding she is only fitted to steal other girls' sweethearts makes a professional occupation of it with the idea of rescuing susceptible males from the schemes of designing females. Among her first customers are a father and son and it is the exciting episodes connected with vamping the recalcitrants that gives the popular little star plenty of opportunity to show her peppy personality in her newest production.

In the cast supporting Miss Dana are Jack Perin, Edward Johnson, Julia Calhoun, Wedgwood Nowell, Kate Toneray, Lenore Lynard, Fred Kelsey and Arthur Milette, some of whom have been seen in previous Dana productions.

John Arnold, who has photographed Miss Dana's previous pictures handled the camera for "The Match Breaker." The continuity was written by Arthur J. Zellner. A. F. Mantz was art director.

AT THE ELTINGE
 Presenting remarkable scenes in which more than seven thousand persons take part, "Deception," a tremendous picture which will be shown at the Eltinge theater for two days beginning Wednesday, is undoubtedly one of the most massive photoplay productions ever released in this country. The European screen artists, Henny Porten and Emil Jannings, head one of the largest and finest casts ever assembled in any motion picture.

The scenes of the photodrama are located in England during the reign of King Henry VIII, in the first half of the sixteenth century. They show the espousal of Anne Boleyn by Bluff King Hal, the hero of a hundred amours, the coronation ceremonies in Westminster Abbey, the water carnival on the Thames, a knightly tournament, the sitting of an ecclesiastical court, the trial and condemnation of Anne. Every scene was directed in a masterly manner by Ernest Lubitsch, a Bohemian director, who produced "Passion."

Henny Porten as Anne Boleyn and Emil Jannings as the king, have roles of great dramatic power and they head an unusually large and capable cast of players. The story has deep heart interest and its appeal is irresistible.

BRITISH TAKE UP PROBLEM OF UNEMPLOYMENT

Gairloch, Sept. 20.—(By the Associated Press.)—Five members of the British cabinet were expected here tomorrow to deal with unemployment for which purpose several London laborites borough mayors have come north. It is probable Premier Lloyd George will also consult with the ministers regarding Irish negotiations.

Mr. Lloyd George has had extracted the tooth which recently caused an abscess.

DYED HER OLD SKIRT TO MAKE CHILD A DRESS

Stories of Great Scouts

By Elmo Scott Watson
 © Western Newspaper Union.
HOW JACK STILLWELL WHIPPED A RATTLENAKE

Gen. "Sandy" Forsyth's band of scouts had been surrounded by Chief Roman Nose's Cheyennes and in the sandy bed of the Arickaree river in eastern Colorado they were fighting for their lives one September day in 1878. They had no food; their doctor had been killed, and relief must come soon if they were to be saved. Forsyth called for volunteers to go to Fort Wallace, Kan., 100 miles away, for aid.

Every unwounded man at once offered himself for the perilous journey, but the general selected Pete Trudeau, an old hunter, and Jack Stillwell, a boy of nineteen. When night came the two scouts started. Taking off their boots, they walked backward down the dry river bed in their stocking feet to deceive any Indians who might come upon their trail.

When morning came they hid in a dry ravine within sight and sound of an Indian camp. They had nothing to eat or drink, and the sun beat upon them fiercely all day long. On the morning of the fourth day they found themselves on the open plain with no cover in sight.

Suddenly they came upon the skeleton of a buffalo surrounded by a rank growth of green grass. Into this scanty refuge Trudeau and Stillwell hastily crept. They were not a minute too soon. A large party of Indians appeared and halted within a hundred yards of their hiding place. The scouts were hugging the ground when Trudeau heard a hiss in the grass in front of him, and a second later a big rattlesnake crawled sluggishly out and coiled within a foot of the scout's head.

Stillwell was chewing tobacco, and just before the snake sounded his deadly rattle, the young scout leaned forward and shot the spray of tobacco juice squarely into the open jaws and eyes of the reptile. The rattler could not stand such a dose. He crawled hastily away. The Indians soon passed on without discovering the scouts. Stillwell's lucky shot had saved their lives.

Forty-eight hours later the two men reached Fort Wallace. Trudeau was completely broken by his terrible experience and he died a few days later, but when the relief expedition left Fort Wallace the undaunted Stillwell rode at its head. He lived to become a judge in Texas and a leading figure in that state until his death a few years ago.

GIRLS! LEMONS BLEACH THE SKIN

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, which any drug store will supply for a few cents, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of harmless and delightful lemon bleach. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day, then shortly note the beauty and whiteness of your skin.

Famous stage beauties use this lemon lotion to bleach and bring that soft clear, rosy-white complexion, also a freckle sunburn, and the bleach because it doesn't irritate.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

MILLIONS
Steel works, mines, farms, forests—the entire Austrian estate of the Archduke Frederick—are taken over by banker Charles H. Sabin, publisher Frank A. Munsey and other Americans.
The property is worth $200,000,000.

A big deal, but it's only the beginning. American brains and capital will salvage Europe, which, when it tries to salvage itself, seems like a man attempting to lift himself by his own bootstraps.

JAGS
More drunkenness in America than anywhere else in the world, says Gaston Monnett, traveling investigator for a French brandy concern.
Come back in 10 years, my dear Gaston. Drunks will be rare then. An evil thousands of years old can't be wiped out overnight.
Most jags now come from home-made hooch. After the novelty wears off, cellar chemists will decide it's more bother than it's worth.

JAPAN
A peculiar angle of disarmament is that Japanese newspapers think limitation of armies will cause more argument than the naval end, at the Washington conference.
Japan and France are the only two big powers that still have peace-time conscription.
The Japanese attitude probably is that, in an emergency, Japan could build battleships faster than armies. Also, battleships wouldn't be any good at putting down revolutions against Mikados.

HUBBY
Before Mrs. Richard Kaufman, of Chicago, married, her husband promised to wash the dishes every night. She has just had him arrested for the fourth time for breaking his promise. The judge holds that the promise is binding, and Richard goes back to the dish pan under a $50 peace bond.

Do you remember the promises you made your fiancée before marriage? How many have you kept? A little louder please!

REAL MONEY
Italy has officially recognized that America has taken the place of Great Britain as the world's financial center by changing from the pound sterling to the gold dollar as the basis of the Italian gold lira. The reason, unofficially stated, is that "dollars are real money, the best money in the world."

Rather jarring to British pride, but these are days that governments as well as individuals must deal in realities instead of traditions. And certainly the British sterling as the basis of international exchange values is a tradition.

CHINA
Dr. Sun Yat-Sen says that his political party, ruling from Canton, South China, is the real Chinese government. Not so, says the official government at Peking, where Japs lobby. Now a third "Chinese government" sets up shop at Hankow, in the interior.

Will China eventually split up into several countries, each with more people than the United States? Not if Tokio can help it. Keep the Chinese fighting each other and they can't fight us, is Japanese policy. The Chinese Giant will take care of that when he gets the opium and bribes out of his system.

CROWD
In Randolph, Vermont, town of 3500 people, Rev. Fraser Metzger reports his congregation average 900 seated, 100 standing in the rear.
Ministers who preach to small crowds will wonder how he does it. It's simple. Movies!

"The Life of Christ" and "The Servant in the House" are samples of movies shown in Rev. Metzger's Congregational church. International Church Film Company, of Boston, supplies the films.

Many ministers will not approve of the idea, but it seems to be sure-fire for bringing lost sheep back into the fold.

HOUSEWORK
Housework is the chief cause of insanity among women, English asylum heads report.
In making lunatics, dish-washing heads the list. Men, in shop and office, meet friends daily, encounter new experiences, always something interesting.

How many men realize the monotony of housework, to the wife working alone?

Husbands should take their wives out for recreation, at least twice a week. Work loses its monotony when occasional pleasure intervenes for contrast.

ERZBERGER
The assassination of Matthias Erzberger did not create much of a stir outside of Germany. It would be more of a sensation if Pola Negri spained her ankle.

Yet, less than four years ago, the world's undivided attention was concentrated on Erzberger as he advanced to meet Marshal Foch and sign the Armistice that stopped the war.

The big war characters are rapidly going into eclipse.

SONG
The tune of "The Star Spangled Banner" is that of an old drinking song, says a music historian.
The drinking song, "To Anacreon in Heaven," was composed about 179 years ago for a carousing club that met at the Crown-and-Ancor tavern in the Strand, London. Francis Scott Key used it to carry his famous patriotic stanzas.

This information should give the problem of getting Americans to put much pep and vigor into singing "The Star Spangled Banner."

DIVORCE
England is alarmed because it had 4041 divorces last year.
Every 11 days, America has as many divorces as England has in a year. About 133,000 American families split up in 1920.
Every four minutes of every hour of the day and night, some American couple arranges alimony.
In the last 20 years, 3,767,182 American men and women secured divorce papers. This involved 6,000,000 minor children, whose homes were wrecked by the divorce mills.

DEBT
When George Bernard Shaw, in 1915, was asked who would win the war, he answered: "Who won the San Francisco earthquake?"
Now that the war-earthquake is over, the national debts of the world total $293,651,000,000, compared with $35,069,000,000 in 1914.
To pay the interest on this debt, the world's people must contribute $11,886,000,000 annually. Bankruptcy will undermine western civilization if the Washington disarmament conference fails.

EDITORIAL REVIEW
Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

THE WILL TO WORK
It is strange to find the belief surviving anywhere that those who sit in the shade, twiddling their thumbs and twaddling with their tongues, deserve pay for it, as though they worked and produced.
The rule of labor is the underpinning of the universe. The Creator Himself set the example. He toiled and He rested. He is the "master of every trade." Man, made in His image, can hardly expect divine favor to rest upon sloth.

On every hand, however, we see people trying to crawl under or over or around that uncomfortable prescription about earning one's bread in the sweat of one's brow. On the dance-floor the two-step and the one-step may come and go; but in the workshop the sidestep and the sidestepper are always with us.

Young men are hunting for short cuts to wealth. The shortest cut is the straight line of responsibility and duty and good faith with one's employer.

If your employer happens to be your own self, there are certain things you owe yourself just as much as though somebody else hired you. You owe it to yourself to report for the day's work fit to do it. You owe it to yourself to keep your appointments at the time set for them. You owe it to yourself to be steadily industrious. You cannot in self-respect take money that you have not earned nor demand a fabulous income for a fictitious effort.

Creation's cry goes up on high
From age to cheated age;
Send us the men who do the work
For which they draw the wage!

There are men out of employment this morning who are the victims of economic mal-ease and readjustment. They have been caught betwixt grinding milestones of circumstances. They deserve sympathy and a hearing and an opportunity. That opportunity is likely to come, soon and suddenly, if they hold on.

But there are others who deserve no sympathy. They deliberately elected to be idle. They defied God's law—they condemned likewise all conciliation and consideration that were not of their own selfish and greedy dictatorship.

Certainly the chance to earn a living—which is the greatest single blessing that is vouchsafed mankind—ought to go to those who have the will to work and not the desire to stir up insurrectionary discontent and make trouble in the peace-loving, law-abiding ranks of the industrious, who "know of toil and the end of toil; they know God's law is plain."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

MOVIES AND MORALS
How Do Employers Regard Girls?
Mrs. Calhoun Tells
Movies and morals are being discussed everywhere as a result of the Arbuckle case. "What gives must a girl pay for a movie camera?" people ask. The question is answered in this series of articles written especially for the Bismarck Tribune by Mrs. Florence Calhoun, mother of Alice Calhoun, the Vitaphone star who in five years has risen on a $100 a day extra to a $100 a week performer.
(By Florence Calhoun)
Mother of Alice Calhoun, Vitaphone Star, the Youngest in the Movies
That beauty is the only asset required to assure a girl's success in the movies is a fallacy, but it is a popular belief.
Animated by it, many of Alice Calhoun's fans send her their pictures, asking if the originals are qualified for camera work.
Some are so charming that she often wonders why fate directed her instead of some other girl into the world of photo play.
Beauty is essential, but beauty of face and figure alone will not suffice for enduring success. There must be beauty of soul—and this beauty is achieved by resistance to the temptations that beset the girl on her way to stardom.
These temptations are not necessarily of shadowland. There are many outsiders who make it their avocation to prey upon the girls and women of screen or stage. These seem to think that because a girl entertains the public, she is public property.
Strength of soul usually goes hand in hand with health of body.
And given a certain amount of good looks, of a kind which will photograph to advantage, good health is the next essential to film stardom.
It cannot be denied that beauty of a certain special type which directors and came-men recognize at a glance is a factor in the making of a star.
But there is a tremendous wear and tear upon beauty in the movies of the kind the young aspirant and the fans seldom dream of.
This is not the wear and tear of dissipation—but the strain and tension of quick and precise acting before the camera.
Every woman knows the effect of overwork upon good looks until one has recuperated.
The movie industry is run primarily to make money. A high-salaried star is a large investment. Hundreds of thousands of dollars are invested in her name alone.
Hence movie producers want a star to safeguard her health. They prize most the star whose private life is such that she will serve them longest on the screen.
This means that every girl, hoping to make a substantial success in the movies, must ordain her life with care.
For there is a supreme morale without which no movie artist ever arrived anywhere. Of it I will write tomorrow.

MISS KENNELLY BRIDE OF CLAUDE FUNDEN
A pretty wedding occurred at 5 o'clock Saturday evening at the Catholic rectory when Miss Margaret Helen Kennelly became the bride of Claude Funder. The ceremony was read by Rev. St. Clement Dimpfl, pastor of the St. Joseph Catholic church and was witnessed by the members of the immediate families and a few intimate friends.
Miss Mabel Oleon, Frazee, Minn., was at the piano and played the wedding march from Lohengrin as the bridal party entered the rectory and following the exchange of vows, played the Mendelssohn march as the recessional.

The bride wore a brown suit of duvet-de-loine trimmed in seal fur and accessories to correspond and wore a corsage bouquet of yellow and red roses. She was attended by the groom's sister Miss Tessa Funder who wore an afternoon dress of blue taffeta with a corsage bouquet of asters. Rev. Kennelly, brother of the bride, was groomsmen.
Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served at the home of

PEOPLE'S FORUM
Editor The Bismarck Tribune, Bismarck, North Dakota.
Dear Sir:
As a reader of The Tribune I take great interest in what "The Pot Boiler" has on the stove boiling for its readers. I like to do cooking and always did like to watch a pot boil, so the very name "pot boiler" is fascinating to me. I like to cook and eat pea soup, and as I read that "The Pot Boiler" has to say, I cannot help but think what our great state and the whole world needs is "Peace Soup." But what prompts me to write is the coming in contact with a farmer to-day, but one of the many in our state at this time who had no crop this last year, and then the reading in The Tribune about the preparation for the recall ballot and the expense of printing the mandatory publicity pamphlet, which is to cost about $10,000. I will give the farmer story first and I am in a position to know that his story is true, and also that he is only one of the many in our state at this time that has the same sad, but true condition to reveal. With distress written on his face he told me this: "We are very poor this year, we have never been so poor. We had no crops. From two acres of potatoes planted we received one and a half bushels. I have ten children for which I could not buy clothing last year, and this year we haven't even money to buy thread to mend the old clothing. Winter is coming and I have no money to buy coal. I cannot borrow money, and I cannot buy coal and groceries on time. I cannot see how we can live through the winter. We have been without light for several nights as I have no money to buy oil."
In the face of these facts, I said to myself "the recall" must not be. But what the state must do and do speedily, is prepare to feed its hungry and clothe its poor, keep them warm during the winter so that they can live and are physically able to read the publicity pamphlet when it must be printed in June. Public health nurses tell me "you have no idea of the poverty in the state on account of repeated crop failures." For individuals of the state to spend money for anything unnecessary at this time when thousands are starving is the worst of wrong. What our state needs is less urging and more praying, and it needs men who can pray and appreciate God's guidance, and then He will send it to bless the soil so that it will produce abundantly. So for the sake of the needy in our state and elsewhere, "the recall" must not be.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS
By Olive Barton Roberts
All the badges and sticks and fairy policemen and Twins and Magic Green Shoes in the world didn't bother Tubby Terrapin a bit as he lay flat on his stomach on the bottom of the sea, there he was and there he was going to stay, right in everybody's road. He looked like a large brown rock and he lay there with his head and his feet and his tail all tucked inside his shell.
Nancy and Nick climbed up on top of him and sat down. "He isn't doing so very much harm, is he?" asked Nick, finally. "I've fishes can swim over top of him."
Cap'n Pennywinkle grunted. "I'm not worried about what's over him!" he replied. "It's what's under him that's on my mind. The old fellow is lying on quite a few of the dwellers of the Land of Wiggles, Spiky Starfish, Crawly Crab and several Oysters. They'll be smashed flat."
Curly, the sea-horse, spoke up. "I know something. Cap'n Pennywinkle," said he. "There's a fisherman's net spread out in the bay over yonder. If we could get it over here and wrap a corner of it around—" He got no further for Captain Pennywinkle jumped and slapped his knee. "Curly, you're as smart as popcorn! That is certainly a fine idea! Nick, Nancy, do you want to do an errand for me?"
The Twins slid down from their seat on Mr. Terrapin's back and declared that they were ready. "Then," said Cap'n Pennywinkle, "each of you get hold of a corner of Mr. Fisherman's net and bring it here to me. This old fellow, who insists on sitting here like a bump on a log, will have to be taught a lesson, and there is no use wasting any time about it. The sooner the quicker!"

Thought One Clean Shirt All He Needed
"Ten years ago I was reduced to a mere shadow. I was as low as a gold piece and would often be doubled up with most excruciating pains in my stomach. Physicians could only relieve me with morphine. I was advised to try Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and it helped me at once. What is more, I have been well ever since. A friend said he thought one clean shirt was all I would ever wear. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. TOTS LOCKED IN CLOSET 90 HOURS

Paterson, N. J.,—Missing for 90 hours, Stella Weiner, five years old, and her playmate, Harry Barber, seven, were found, suffering from hunger and exhaustion, in the clothes closet of a vacant apartment in which they had been imprisoned. After they had been revived, the children explained they entered the closet while playing hide and seek, but had not closed the door. Soon afterward, they said, Ethel Boinofsky, another playmate, slammed the door, and they did not realize they were sealed up until after she had left the room. Ethel, who is only four, either forgot to mention that she had closed the door, or else did not realize they were in the closet. When the children failed to come home to supper, the distracted parents began an exhaustive search for them. Police and neighbors combed the vicinity, but found no trace of them. A few days later Jacob Weiner and Samuel Miller visited the vacant apartment for a game of cards. Strange noises from a clothes closet startled them and they opened the door. On the floor Weiner saw the partly conscious form of his little sister, and huddled in a corner was her boy playmate. Doctors summoned soon revived the children. The fact that the closet door did not fit closely, thus permitting a slight circulation of air, saved their lives, the doctors who attended them said.

MARKETS

FRESH UPTURN
Chicago, Sept. 20.—Fresh upturn in wheat prices resulted today from continued wet weather hindering the movement of the spring crop and jamming grain in shocks. Opening figures which were from 1-4 to 1-4 cents higher were followed by material further gains and then something of a reaction.

Apparent absence of new export business tended to ease the market later. Price closed unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to one-half cent higher.

THE LONG SHOT MADE BY BILLY DIXON

“The old Sharps rifle ended the North American buffalo,” once wrote Theodore Roosevelt, the chronicler of the winning of the West, and he might have added that this famous gun helped write “Finis” to the story of the Indian with a few periods of lead.

One of the most remarkable shots ever made with this rifle took place at the Adobe Walls fight in the Texas Panhandle in 1874, when a war party of Kiowas, Comanches and Cheyennes tried to wipe out a little group of buffalo hunters who had their headquarters there. The shot was fired by Billy Dixon, known to the Indians as “Hasta—Long Hair.”

After three charges against the stockade had failed to overwhelm the buffalo hunters, the Indians settled down to starve them out. During the siege “Bat” Masterson, one of the hunters, noticed a group of Indians gathered on a hill nearly three-quarters of a mile away. They could be plainly seen, and were evidently talking over some new plan for overcoming the white men when Masterson called Dixon's attention to the group.

“Billy, it wouldn't be a bad idea to break up that little pow-wow over there, would it?” he said.

“Don't know whether the old Sharps is good for it or not, but I'll try it,” replied Dixon. He knew the range, approximately 1,200 yards. Fixing the sights of his gun to this range, the scout aimed carefully and fired. The white men saw the conference of the warriors break up hastily and the savages retreat to a safer place.

Dixon served as a scout for General Miles in the campaign against the southern tribes that year, and he was one of the six dispatch bearers who made a heroic stand in an old buffalo wallow against a war party of 125 Comanches and Kiowas. In this fight Amos Chapman, a fellow scout, lost his leg. Although Dixon's shirt front was riddled with bullets, he received only one slight wound. That night he volunteered to go for help and after a perilous trip he brought back a troop of cavalry and rescued his comrades.

For nine years Dixon was a government scout at Fort Elliott, Tex. Then he homesteaded a ranch in the Panhandle building his log house on the ruins of the old Adobe Walls where he had made his famous shot with the old Sharps. Later he moved to Cannon county, Okla., and died near the little town of Graham in 1911.

“BAT” MASTERSON'S REVENGE ON THE CHEYENNES

One December day in the early seventies a young buffalo hunter down in the Texas Panhandle was busy skinning a buffalo when five Cheyennes of Chief Bear Shield's band rode up, saluted him with a grave “How!” and sat on their ponies idly watching his work. Although the hunter's Sharps rifle was lying some distance away, he was not worried, for the Cheyennes were supposed to be peaceful at that time.

Presently one of the red men dismounted and picked up the Sharps as though to examine it and, as he did so, another reached across and whipped the pistol from the holster in the hunter's belt. Instantly the first Indian struck the white man a murderous blow across the forehead with the rifle and in broken but emphatic English told him to “git.” The hunter was outnumbered five to one; he “got.”

The victim of the Cheyennes was “Bat” Masterson. William Barclay Masterson was his name, but his success as a buffalo hunter had won him the title of “Bat,” as a worthy successor to Baptiste Brown, “Old Bat,” a mighty slayer of game in the old days. Masterson reached his camp in safety. That night he rode stealthily into Bear Shield's village and “went out” 40 of the old chief's ponies. As he worked he came upon another rider engaged in the same occupation. It proved to be Billy Fighman, a fellow buffalo hunter who later became a famous deputy United States marshal.

When in 1874 a war party swept down upon the Adobe Walls, the buffalo hunters' headquarters, some of Bear Shield's warriors rode with it, and one of the defenders of the little stockade was “Bat” Masterson. Then and there he obtained revenge for the blow which the Cheyenne had struck him.

After the Adobe Walls fight, Masterson enlisted as a scout for General Miles and served with him until the southern plains tribes were subdued. A few years later he was elected sheriff of Ford county, Kansas. Dodge city, the county seat, was one of the toughest cowboy towns in the West, but when Masterson resigned in 1881 it was one of the most peaceful. By his courage and his skill he had established a record second only to Wild Bill Hickok as a tamer of “bad men.”

Barley, 42 to 58 cents
Rye No. 2, 99 1-2 to $1.00
Flax No. 1, $2.05 to $2.08.

Then he left the West never to return, and today “Bat” Masterson is a high-salaried writer on a New York newspaper.

Carrying On With the American Legion

The mayor of Wenatchee, Wash., the county sheriff and all his deputies are members of the local post of the Legion.

Dr. A. A. Van Dyke, St. Paul Minn., member of the national executive committee, has been elected commander of the Minnesota department to succeed A. H. Vernon, Little Falls.

More than 100 movie stars, members of Hollywood, Cal., post of the American Legion, will attend the reunion of the Ninety-first division at Los Angeles, September 24 and 25.

At least 11 bands from Missouri will attend the national convention of the American Legion at Kansas City, October 30, 31 and November 1. St. Louis will send a band of 100 pieces.

More than one-eighth of the population of Rudolph, Ind., is enrolled in the American Legion. The town has 106 service men out of a population of 800, every one of whom belongs to the local post.

To teach children proper love and respect for old glory, state school leaders and a committee from the American Legion are writing a simple, impressive ceremony to be followed in every school room.

When violence was threatened against Mrs. Ida Crouch Hazlett, socialist speaker at Des Moines, Ia., recently, a group of American Legion men seized her and carried her to a police station for protection. Her sympathizers at first believed she was being kidnapped.

A meat cutter is the commander, a railroad switchman the vice commander and a bank clerk the adjutant of the American Legion post at Harlowton, Mont., which has the largest percentage of potential membership in the state. In a village of 2,500, the post has a 32-piece band.

Citizens of Ephraim, Wash., had been discussing a city park for years. One Sunday morning the local post of the American Legion turned out in force with wagons, shovels, rakes and picks and before the church bells rang had ground prepared for the park. The citizens will complete the work and stop discussions.

President Harding's call for a world conference on disarmament this fall is expected by officials in charge of the third annual national convention of the American Legion in Kansas City, October 30, 31, and November 1, to insure the presence of a number of distinguished foreign generals at the Legion convention.

There is no railroad, no post office, not even a town. But there is a thriving post of the American Legion in a farming locality 15 miles northwest of Paige, N. D. The men meet every week in a different farm house to hold socials and dances. The farmers of the area are furnishing the Legion posts with funds to erect a community house.

Following representations made to the United States Civil Service commission by the American Legion, disabled veterans of the World war who have undergone training by the federal board for vocational education will be allowed to enter examinations for any government position for which they have been trained if application is made within 60 days after completion of training.

Admiral Sir David Beatty, first sea lord of Great Britain, will attend the American Legion convention in Kansas City, Oct. 30, 31, and Nov. 1, according to a cable received by the convention committee from Admiral Beatty, 61 years old, is called the “infant prodigy” of England's naval forces. He was the youngest captain and the youngest admiral.

To jog the memories of members of congress deliberating on legislation for the disabled service men of America, James C. Russell, member of Buckhannon post, the American Legion, Chicago, recently sent a picture postcard to all of them. It showed a soldier, severely wounded in action near St. Somplet, France, Oct. 19, 1918, being helped from the battlefield by two hospital corps men, and smiling.

Wherever there are Americans, there is a base-line diamond. It cost the Ketchikan (Alaska) post of the American Legion $3,500 to construct a ball diamond upon which teams could play between the Alaska rains. Games start at six o'clock in the evening, and continue until midnight. A Legion baseball team recently spent 24 hours on a gas boat to go from Sitka to Juneau to play a game on schedule.

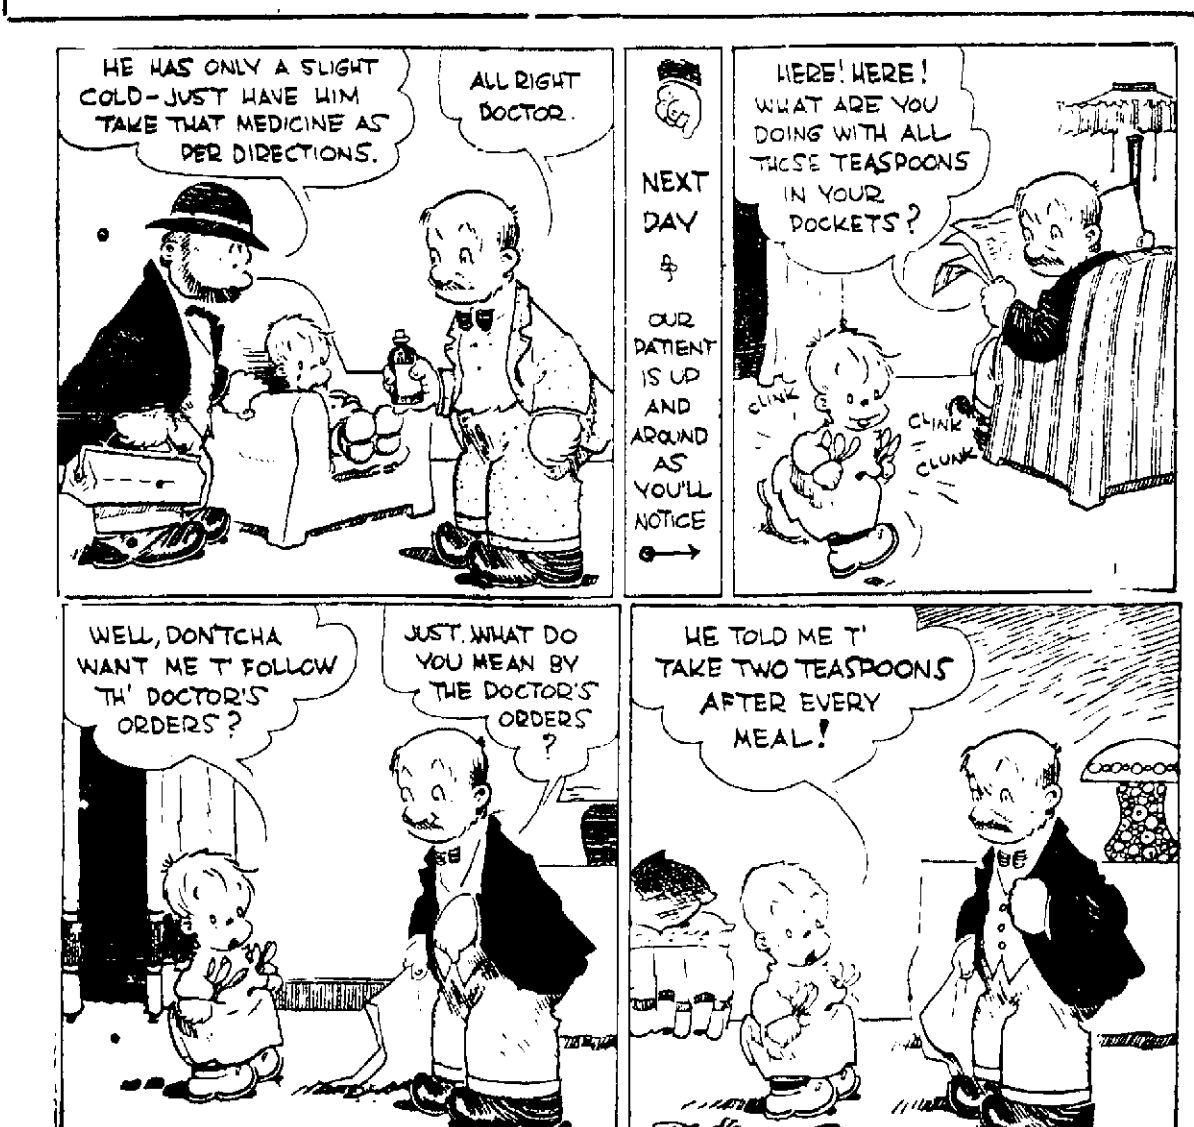

Seattle, Wash., where the Bolsheviks tried out their first American soviet government and met one Hanson, now is in the hands of the American Legion. The state's lieutenant governor, the mayor of the city, the attorney general, the prosecuting attorney and two city councilmen are members of Rammer-Nelson post of the Legion. The city's police force also was recently presented by the post membership.

TILDEN VICTOR OVER JOHNSON IN NET GAMES

Again Wins National Tennis Championship in Terrific Play

Philadelphia, Sept. 20.—William Tilden, the great American tennis player, today won the 1920 national tennis championship by defeating Bill Johnston in a terrific match at the U. S. National Tennis Club here.

Tilden, who is 34 years old, won the title for the fourth time in his career. He defeated Johnston, 19, in a match that lasted four hours and 15 minutes.

The match was one of the most exciting in the history of the sport. Tilden was in command from the start, but Johnston fought back bravely. The match was a real battle, and Tilden's victory was a triumph.

Tilden's record in the U. S. National Tennis Club is 14 wins and 1 loss. Johnston's record is 1 win and 1 loss.

Tilden's victory today was a great achievement. He has won the title for the fourth time, and he is now the reigning champion of the United States.

IF MATTY CAME BACK! What Would Happen If "Big Six" Stepped Into A World Series Today Against The Fence Busters?

CHRISTY MATTHEWSON HAS APPEARED IN MORE WORLD SERIES THAN ANY OTHER PITCHER

COOMBS WON 5 WORLD SERIES GAMES AND LOST NONE

CHIEF BENDER WON 6 AND LOST 4

BY ROY GROVE

Oh, for a Matty a Bender!

It is a well known fact around the majors that often repeated this season when the fence busting boys got busy. And with four teams of heavy hitters, the prospects are for a knockout world series. It is sure to be a wonder what would happen were the old boys to step back.

There's Big Six Matthewson for example. The great pitcher that has been in the White Sox line-up since 1911. He was in his zenith during the 1909 series between the Giants and Athletics. Matty worked in three of the five games and won all his series by the knockout route.

In the first game he allowed four hits, struck out six and pitched nine. In the third game he allowed four hits, struck out eight men and walked one. In the fifth game he allowed six hits, struck out four men and pitched nine.

That's a total for three games of 14 runs, 14 hits, 18 strikeouts and one pass.

Compare that with Iron Man's record. He pitched in the 1920 series with the Brooklyn Dodgers when the Polo worked in three of the seven games.

In the first game Coombs gave one run, allowed five hits, struck out three men and walked one. In the third game he allowed one run, five hits, struck out four men and walked one. In the seventh game he struck out one now and walked none.

His record for the three games, 2 runs, 15 hits, 8 strikeouts and 2 walks.

And Coombs' record stands high among the moderns.

What would happen were Matty as he was in his heyday to face the Bambino, the Weasels, or the other members of the homerun clan?

"REB" RUSSELL BLOOMS AS SLUGGER FOR THE MILLERS

By Newspaper Enterprise.

Remember Reb Russell?

The great pitcher who bloomed with the Chicago White Sox in 1914, winning 22 games and losing but 16. He was in the line-up with Minneapolis in the American Association.

In 1918 he lost his effectiveness and was released outright.

He tried a comeback with Indianapolis and failed. He kept trying in the minors until 1920. Deciding he was through he went to work in an Indianapolis garage.

Joe Cantillon, manager of the Minneapolis club, turned up in Indianapolis with a bunch of old luck.

Rondeau, his best outfielder, broke his leg.

Friends of Cantillon suggested he visit the garage and have a chat with the Reb.

Took Chance

Reb didn't claim to be in out of the game. He was back in the chance.

He played in the 27 remaining games of the 1920 season and when the batting records were published his name was found that Reb had hit a .334 pace four points higher than the American Association recognized batting king.

And the outcast comebacker is best on walloping the ball this year for the Millers.

Just now Reb is running a race and neck race with Bunnie Briet. His mark is a round 20 four base blows.

Valera Bid.

The majors want to buy him back. Cantillon has turned down several offers for his slugger.

Reb and Dick Wade are the long in the line of the Millers.

Wade has nicked about 25 so far and his batting eye hasn't slumped any.

This is Wade's second year in baseball.

President Belden of the Minneapolis club met Wade at a curling match.

Wade's Rise.

Belden looked at the fellow who could curl like Wade was an athlete war by of a baseball as a hooligan.

That's how Wade became a professional baseball player and developed into a star.

Stories of Great Scouts

By Elmo Scott Watson

Western Newspaper Union.

LEWIS WETZEL, "DEATH WIND OF THE DELAWARES"

Many of the great scouts did not become Indian fighters until they were men, but Lewis Wetzel started early. He killed his first Indian when he was only thirteen years old. Wetzel was born in Virginia in 1732. His father moved to the present site of Wheeling, W. Va., and was killed there by the Indians before the eyes of his sons. Lewis swore eternal enmity against all Redskins.

One day while he and his brother were roaming in the woods they were attacked by Indians. Lewis killed one of the savages and the next instant was hit by a bullet which carried away a piece of his breast bone. Both boys were taken captive. That night while the Indians slept, Wetzel worked loose the things which bound him and then unfasted his brother.

After the boys had fled for about a mile they discovered that their moccasins were torn to shreds. Learning his brother in hiding, Lewis returned to the Indian camp and, undetected by the sleeping savages, robbed them of two pairs of moccasins as well as a gun and some powder and lead.

The next morning the Indians were out on their trail and soon were close upon them. As the Indians approached, the boys stepped out of the trail into a clump of bushes, allowing their pursuers to speed past, and then they followed. Soon they heard the Indians coming back and again they stepped into the bushes and hid. The Wetzel boys played this dangerous game of hide-and-seek several times before they finally eluded the savages and returned in safety to their home.

When Lewis Wetzel grew older he crossed over into Ohio and soon became one of the best-known scouts in the country.

Carl Sawyer, film comedian, pointed the way to professional umpires when called upon to arbitrate at an amateur game in Los Angeles. Sawyer

Washington—A new outbreak of pellagra in the South is alarming the public health service. In one state alone the number of cases has doubled since last year. The public health service considers the situation very serious and is making preparation to cope with it.

On Honeymoon Hike

Ernest J. Jackson, who served in the first division in France, and who was wounded 14 times, has started with his bride on a honeymoon hike across the continent from New York to San Francisco. The pair stopped at Indianapolis on the 29th day of their walk and paid a visit to the national headquarters of the American Legion.

TRIBUTE WANTS—FOR RESULTS

There will be good world series practice for someone in the Indian-Yankee series that begins in New York Sept. 23.

REWARD.

Bill Killefer is going to manage the Chicago Cubs again next season.

When Evers was relieved of the Cub management Aug. 4 and Killefer was placed in charge, the team perked up in spirit, dissension was forgotten and everyone scrapped hard for the team.

Killefer proved himself a real leader. He's popular with his men and is one of them, nothing more.

Men like this make the game worth while.

Cleveland has one in Tris Speaker. Detroit has one in Ty Cobb.

She brushed her lips in a childish manner. The pie she ate then turned them blue.

RAZZBERRY

Johnny Wilson, Indian notice the clipping about a boxer out in Kansas City who died from over exertion?

1 Philadelphia vs Philadelphia World not that he a dirty trick?

Johnny Wilson said he got rattled on the club and was dazed for five rounds. Where was the other seven?
